GOVERNMENT WAS SUSTAINED ON PULP EMBARGO BILL IN MOCK PARLIAMENT SESSION

Amendment Proposing Postponement of Bill Defeated by 42-23 — Liberal Party Headed by Humphrey Now Official Opposition — Glasco Resigned After Brilliant Career — Smaller Attendance of Members than Usual

An opening of scathing repartee led the way to an intensive discussion on the Pulpwood embargo bill, which was read for the second time at the session of the Students' Parliament held in the Ballroom of the Union last night. Spectator stated that his party was determined to do what other parties had failed to do—stop the terrible depletion of pulp and paper supplies which in twenty-five years would ruin the country. The hon. Dehoure, business magnate and member for Lachine showed great fear that Canada's pulp industry would be demoralized, as it would take away her greatest customer, the United States. The Prime Minister's statements denied by the Liberal party, who declared that ninety per cent of the depletion was due to natural causes, and that the supply, at the present rate would take 600 years to reduce to nothing.

At the outset, the Prime Minister and the Minister of Fine Arts, of the government came in for many changes. The former promised to consider about ten different things, in the near future—the Chicago drainage system, Maritime rights, secession to Russia—but could give no definite answer at present. The Minister of Fine Arts promised to furnish artists to re-carve the desks in the Arts building particularly, and to erase the present abominations as soon as possible.

After this parrying of blows, the party came to complete order and the bill was read for the second time. The Prime Minister stated that the object of his party was to protect Canada's greatest national heritage. This industry is the second largest in Canada, the speaker said, involving a capital of four hundred million dollars, and employed regularly 25,000 people, with an extra 25,000 in the winter, for cutting purposes. The exports amounted to $143,000,000 per annum, and if the present rate of progress is continued, Canada will become the greatest pulp and paper exporting nation in the world. The growth of this industry from its infancy in 1808 has been nothing short of phenomenal. Four-fifths of our forest production is available for manufacture and exportation, remarked the speaker. Two chief areas of the industry are the Quebec-Ontario Eastern section, and the British Columbia section. A great water divide cuts Quebec nearly in half, the area North, though fitted with immense resources, being almost negligible on account of lack of communication etc.

The Prime Minister went on to say that the chief causes of pulpwood depletion were: first, fire, second disease, and third the policy of free export. His party was determined to do what preceding parties had failed to do—to stop this depletion.

(Loud cheers from the Reform party.) In twenty-five years according to the speaker, Canada will be without pulpwood resources, if the present ruinous policy is being carried out.

The Reform party aims at the conservation of our forests by embargo. The benefits are two-fold, first in enriching the country, and second, in reaping material benefits. At present, as soon as the pulp is placed in the freight car, that is the last Canada has to do with it. By new bill, the pulp would be manufactured in Canada, under government supervision. This would force foreign manufacturers to establish mills here. The speaker figured that at least thirty-three mills would be built in the Dominion by the new system. Each mill would bring an average of nine million dollars capital into the country. (Continue on Page Three)

R.V.C. SEXTETTE MEET MACDONALD

Intercollegiate Basketball will Be Played Soon

The R. V. C. Basketball team will play its third League game of the year this evening at Macdonald College. So far this season the R. V. C. team has met with great success, having won from the Y. W. C. A. and from the Macdonald first team when they played in the Montreal High School gymnasium. To-night there will be two games and the second team will then have a chance to turn the tables on the Macdonald second team which defeated them last time.

In three weeks time the R. V. C. basketball sextette will journey to Toronto where the Intercollegiate games will be played at Hart House. Matches will take place between R. V. C. and Varsity, R. V. C. and Queen's. There will also be an exhibition game.

The line-up for these games has not been definitely decided, upon in any case there will be only three of last year's players on this year's team. Misses Elsie and Robt. Duntun, and Miss Glen Cameron Miss Minnie Batten as jumping centre has also been showing up well in games and practice.

The line-up for the two games today appears elsewhere in this issue.

MR. DAVIDSON GAVE INTERESTING TALK

Spoke on "The Pathway to Power"

Last night, the members of the Theological Undergraduate Society had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Davidson of Brooklyn in an address on "The Pathway to Power." The speaker, who is at present the pastor of the Reform Church, Brooklyn was a resident of Montreal and pastor of Calvary Congregational Church, not more than four years ago. Mr. Moore, president of the Society, introduced the speaker, saying that both he and Mr. Davidson were Irish and were closely associated with each other years ago in Belfast.

To the many members of the Society that were present to hear the speaker, a wonderful address on perseverance and faith was given. The speaker's topic was a forceful one and his words were equally so. Moreover, he mixed his address with a number of delightful stories that illuminated the talk and helped to bring out his points in a clear and convincing manner. A native of Ireland is always a good story teller but Mr. Davidson is far above ordinary raconteurs.

The speaker began his address by expressing his gladness in being able to address the Society, before returning home to Brooklyn. "There is a pathway to health," began the speaker, "there is a pathway to wealth; there is a pathway to international peace and there is a pathway to power."

"Power exhibits itself in three ways," continued the speaker. "There is power as defined by force; there is power that manifests itself as strength such as the meek oxen or the mighty oak; and there is thirdly the power of personality, of efficiency and of pursuing an ideal to the end. It is the pathway that we all should seek."

The speaker then went on to say that the spiritual and moral power of America had not kept pace with the horse-power. That this spiritual power could be developed was shown in the examples given us by nature. The speaker took the case of the tiny acorn that grew to the mighty oak, demonstrating the latent possibilities of the small acorn. Everyone of us has great latent possibilities, and if we will only seek to develop them, there are no heights to which we cannot climb. If we are to get anywhere it is in our selves that we must look to find the secret.

The office is more than a place to make money, declared Mr. Davidson. It is also a place to build character. The workshop is more than a place to make engines and machines, it is also a place to build character. The same holds true with college. Character as well as knowledge can be acquired at college.

Mr. Davidson then spoke of the work of the great men who had attained their great spiritual power. He told of the work of the great leaders in religion and of how they had spread Christianity. (Continued on page Three)

ROWING CLUB FACILITIES EXTENDED

Varsity Graciously Offers Assistance to McGill Oarsmen

CLUB BANQUET

Speakers are Enthusiastic over Rowing Prospects for Future

"The Athletic Board helps those who help themselves," said Major Forbes at the first annual banquet of the McGill Rowing Club held last night in the Grill room of the Union. Major Forbes warned the club that no help could be expected in the financial line until the club had achieved success. However, he said, once the club had showed its worth the board could not refuse to come forward with monetary assistance.

With this in mind, the question of the rowing programme for the summer was discussed between the courses of the well balanced menu provided by the capable hands of Pierre. Col. Bovey, honorary president of the club and old Cambridge oarsman, Prof. Carruthers, faculty representative, Major Forbes, athletic manager, and Urban Molmans, honorary coach were the guests of honor, about twenty twenty members being present.

Col. Bovey told of a highly gratifying interview with the coach and honorary president of the Varsity Rowing Club, in which he was assured of the warm support of the Varsity rowers, and promised that every conceivable assistance would be willingly given. Varsity is anxious that McGill should row at Toronto both in the spring and the fall, and offered to store McGill's boat for her during the summer, if so desired. In addition she promised to give McGill the use of a boat during the race, and offered to place the same boat at the club's disposal before the race for as long as was desired, for practice purposes. In order to make the races as evenly matched as possible, Toronto said that she would put McGill against a crew with exactly the same experience as her own.

A very sympathetic letter was received from E. C. Cossit, president of the Eastern Rowing Association, and read by Ralph Tennant, lending a hearty invitation to take place in the annual regatta of the E. R. A. being held this year at Brockville. As the E. R. A. is really a branch of the national association, it would be necessary to first join the Canadian Amateur Association of oarsmen before McGill could become a member. The McGill rowers decided to apply for membership, and to pay any necessary fee up to fifteen dollars.

Coach Molmans was confident of the ultimate success of the crew sent from McGill, only emphasizing the necessity of work, and of a confident attitude on entering a race. The coach is himself a famous oarsman, having rowed many times in the champion crews of Europe. At one time he rowed against the Cambridge crew in which Col. Bovey was rowing, and in which his crew was successful.

An urgent call for members is being issued. Those who wish to have the advantages of this expert training and would like to row in Brockville must join in time to allow coach Molmans to give them some training. The club owns a club-house at Lakeside which is free for residence and is open for those who wish to stay there during the summer. The cost is very low, probably about two dollars a month, and living expenses are equally low.

All who wish to join the club or take advantage of the club-house which is open to any undergraduate should see Ralph Tennant, Arts '26.

MEDS. 3 HOCKEYISTS REMAIN UNDEFEATED

The second period opened with a

NORTH BRANCH WIN BASKETBALL GAME

McGill Juniors Beaten By Score 35-18

Playing hard, the McGill Junior basketball team lost a match to North Branch Y.M.C.A. in Moisson last night. The game was closely contested with North Branch having an edge in the shooting.

The game was a fast one, North Branch scoring first on a free throw and followed up with a basket. McGill retaliated with two baskets, and a free throw thus placing themselves in the lead. North Branch, however, brought out its superior shooting ability in regaining their lead. The half-time score standing 13-7 in their favour.

McGill started the second half with a rush and for a time threatened to overcome North Branch's lead. The pace however told on them, and their opponents again began to draw away from them. The final score stood 35-18 in favour of N.B. Y.M.C.A. The whole McGill team played hard, with Isseman and Greenberg the outstanding players. For North Branch, Grant and G. Walker played a stellar game. Blumenstein handled the whistle and had the game well in hand. On Saturday the McGill Juniors are playing a return game, at North Branch.

The teams lined up as follows:

UNANIMOUS VOTE RECORDED BY STUDENTS IN FAVOUR OF LORD RECTOR FOR MCGILL

First Lord Rector to be British Subject — Not to Exclude Canadians — Original Amendment Passed Without Alteration — To Be Settled Finally by Council Next Monday — Minor Amendments Carried Unanimously — Scarlet Key Club not Discussed

The student body of McGill University is in favour of the election of a Lord Rector. This was amply demonstrated in a special meeting of the Students' Society yesterday afternoon, when some hundred students voted unanimously in favour of the amendment providing for the installation of this office. The amendment was never disputed in itself, though lively discussion over the proposed nationality of the first and future Lord Rectors took place. A motion took place. A motion to exclude Canadians from office was defeated by a close majority. The matter has now to be sanctioned by the governors of the University and by the Students' Council, which will meet next Saturday for that purpose.

The first Lord Rector of McGill University will be a British subject, as provided for in the original amendment. No stipulation has been regarding the choice of subsequent nominees.

The amendment was proposed by "Bev" Puddicombe, and the matter thrown open to discussion. Grant Glasco, after a short speech in favour of the move, stated that the question of election might become very serious if a British subject other than a Canadian was chosen, the Canadian would feel slighted, and vice versa. The Council would therefore be under some obligation to choose one of Canadian nationality for reasons of policy unless otherwise stipulated. He proposed an amendment to the amendment which reads as follows:

"The first holders of the office of Lord Rector shall, except under exceptional circumstances, be chosen from some component part of Empire other than the Dominion of Canada." Thus the election to this office might be thrown open, instead of confined to Canada. This amendment was seconded by C. L. Copland.

"Bev" Wells, answering, said that he did not think there was any possibility of a Canadian being chosen for the position, as at the present time, there were no Canadian statesmen of World fame meriting the position. He thought the motion should be as broad as possible. Glasco replied that his amendment had been proposed chiefly to avoid a clash. He also feared that future Students' Societies would not keep to the traditions of the Rectorship, and therefore some strong stipulation should be made.

The other amendments and deletions to the Constitu on were passed without trouble, and taken as a whole, were agreed upon unanimously. The amendment to section 4, which provided that the Social Functions Committee, composed of members of the Students' Council, must sanction all social functions held by the Student body, met with some objection. The President explained that the reason for the amendment was to avoid conflict of social engagements.

As usual, the meeting started very late, for at 5 o'clock, only two members had taken their seats. The last arrival did not appear until half-past five.

WESTERNERS STAGE SKATING PARTY

Refreshments at the Edinburgh Later

To-night at 8.30 the Westerners will meet at the Coliseum Rink on Guy St. for a skating party to be followed by refreshments at the Edinburgh Cafe.

Programmes for the ten bands have been printed and can be obtained from members of the executive. Quite a number of these programmes have been requested so that a large turnout is expected.

After the skating part of the evening's entertainment is over the members of the party will spend their way to the Edinburgh where they will refresh themselves with delightful delicacies and music. Thursday is gala night at this popular amusement place so much amusement is expected, and further, the management have promised to do their utmost to please the members of the club. Several tables have been reserved so accommodation is certain.

No set price has been fixed by the Club. Those attending will pay the regular price of admission at the Coliseum in the usual way. A good crowd is expected and the executive of the Western Club announces that everything is in readiness for the pleasure seekers.

Wells did not think it conceivable that an election detrimental to the interests of the University, could be passed. Even if the Students' Council of future years passed an undesirable nomination, surely the Board of Governors, or at least the Principal, may be expected not to sanction the election of such a man. This viewpoint gained much applause. L. Sassenwein proposed that as such a meagre representation of the student body was present, the matter should be decided by ballot, as it was too important a matter to be arranged in a small meeting.

E. D. MacLeod stated that only those students interested enough to come to the meetings, should take part in the business. This was heartily agreed to. The President's reply was that the ballot arrangement would mean much delay, and he thought the right policy was to "strike when the iron is hot," and while interest was at its highest pitch.

Puddicombe said that it was very likely that some Canadian women would soon rise to world fame and be worthy of the honour.

The amendment to the amendment proposed by Glasco, was defeated by 55votes to 45, and the final decision arrived at was, that although the first Lord Rector must be a British subject, no express stipulation should be made for future holders of that position. This, the original amendment, was carried unanimously.

The organization of a "Scarlet Key" Society, was not discussed, at the general meeting. The Students' Council has full power to act on its own account in this matter, and will do so.

As usual, the meeting started very late, for at 5 o'clock, only two members had taken their seats. The last arrival did not appear until half-past five.

U. OF M. DEFEATED BY MCGILL SECONDS

Intermediates Run up a 7-1 Score

Before a small crowd of six people, the McGill Intermediates downed the University of Montreal team in a hockey fixture at the Forum yesterday afternoon.

The U. of M. goal-tender put up a great battle, and it is due to his stellar work that a much greater score was not registered against the St. Denis St. aggregation. Bobby Bell starred for McGill and can lay claim to three of the seven goals that were tallied. Fred Dion at right wing played a very good game, securing three more counters through clever stick handling. Thompson at centre accounted for a tally and Keney in goal played a very creditable game.

The game was fast and was marked by clever combination plays executed by the McGill chasers.

He—Where did you do most of your skating when you were learning? He—I think you are horrid.

MCGILL WON THREE FINALS AT Y.M.C.A. INVITATION MEET; SPECTACULAR BOUTS STAGED

MacNaughton, Greenberg and Wood Get Firsts — McGill Men in Six Classes and Win Three of Them — Seven Men out of Nine are in Semi-finals—Wrestling Prospects Look Very Encouraging — Over One Hundred Present at Exhibition — Many Ladies Among Spectators

The McGill wrestlers put up an exceptionally good exhibition before a crowd of over a hundred, at the Y. M. C. A. invitation wrestling meet held Tuesday night. Three of the men won their weights in the finals and seven out of nine were in the semi-finals. The bouts were of six minutes duration, one fall being necessary to win in the elimination and semi-finals and two falls being necessary for similar placement in the finals.

In the 118 lb. class, Wood of McGill defeated Black of Verdun by a decision and in the next class Greenberg representing the Red and White threw Gregory of the Y. M. C. A. in five minutes. Bryant another 118 pounder made quick work of Weidrick of the pinning his shoulders in just one minute and fifty seconds.

McNaughton, who was McGill's only entry in the 147 lb. class, defeated Grande Y. M. C. A. in two minutes and a half. Atwell of the Y. secured a fall on Murchison in forty seconds. Another 160-pounder, Vineberg of McGill, threw Bonner of N. A. A. in four minutes. Stockton, the Canadian 175 lb Olympic champion beat Martin of McGill in two minutes and forty seconds.

In the first semi-finals Bryant defeated Fondville, of St. Brigid's, and Greenberg won from Simpson of the Y. M. C. A. McNaughton won his second bout of the evening by throwing McMillan of the Y in three and a half minutes. The last semi-final was a closely-contested bout between Vineberg and Beaucare of N. A. A. A. There was no fall in this bout, but Beaucare received the decision because of his aggressiveness.

Silver, who had drawn a bye in the first round met Boullet of the N. A. A. in the 112 lb. finals. Although most of the crowd seemed to think that Silver had the better the judges could not agree and a extra round was called: in this Boullet received the decision. Demitro, the McGill light-heavy, who had also drawn a bye came up against Stockton in the finals. The first fall was secured by Stockton in five minutes and a second fall obtained twenty seconds later.

The next three McGill men came through with wins. Bryant and Wood both of McGill opposed each other in the 118 lb. class. In a fast bout with no falls, Wood received a close decision. Greenberg, in the next bout, 147 lbs, defeated Rosenthal of the Y. M. C. A. In the last bout, 147 lbs, McNaughton threw Doucette, of St. Brigid's, twice; first in two minutes and thirty-five seconds and gain two minutes later. McNaughton was the only man who won all his bouts by falls.

Medals will be given for both first and second places in each class. This is the best showing McGill wrestlers have made so far this year and everything looks promising for the assault-at-arms and the College championships which will be fought this week.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

It may be that our fair Dominion will retain the tenor of her ways despite the heroic efforts of our student orators to rouse her from a hypothetical lethargy and snatch her from the brink of sure destruction where it appears she is tottering. It may be that, serenely oblivious to the corrupt machinations of opportunist politicians, Canada will fall for the wiles of her destructors. But we timidly venture to predict that our national politics will not be much disturbed by the fervent and eloquent dissertations of the members of our Mock Parliament. Not now.

While the attention of students of the common weal is commendably directed to the study of pertinent questions of actuality and of national moment, it is not the subject matter discussed at the sittings which is of major importance. The important thing is that the Mock Parliament through able leadership has aroused the interest of hundreds of students in public speaking. The proceedings in their mock seriousness and informality contain an appeal for active participation which few students can resist. And here lies the chief merit of the Parliament: that by its sporting challenge it charms into public speaking many who fight shy of the invitation to participate in the sober and studied disquisitions of formal debate.

Man is a perverse creature and must often be lured into that which is for his own good. The "Parliament" and organized debating run hand in hand. Both have for objective the training of students in the art of public speaking. The ability to express oneself in public in a clear concise language is an achievement that is probably better appreciated in our day than in the past. The ability to disentangle a skein of thought; to detect and detect specious sophistry, is the result of logical thinking which in turn finds effective expression in forceful and eloquent speech.

In the creation of a Literary and Debating Society and of a Students' Parliament, McGill students have probably exhausted the facilities for the practice in the art of public speaking, and the numbers of those who avail themselves of the opportunity may be expected to depend upon personal inclination and the universal factor of time. Those who through the course of studies which they pursue come into intimate contact with political economy and related subjects, are better able to enter into the discussions on matters of fiscal policy. While we would not venture to say that those following professional subjects, other than law, are in greater need of this training, certainly the preparation for and participation in debate demands from them a greater sacrifice in terms of time and application. Perhaps the prerequisite Arts training for medical students and the introduction of a similar period for those of applied science, such as mooted in the President's report, will be instrumental in giving to such students freer access to the cultural development which is public speaking.

THE LORD RECTORSHIP

The constitutional amendment providing for a Lord Rectorship at McGill received unanimous approval at the meeting of the Students' Society yesterday. Only a few formalities remain to be executed before the new office is officially sanctioned by the University authorities. It is not an exaggeration to say that the institution of such an office is one of the most epochal measures introduced by the Society in recent years. Its importance may be lost to those who look for immediate and apparent results from progressive legislation. A speech delivered once in every three years is in itself of no particular importance. The fact that that speech will be delivered by a British subject known throughout the length and breadth of the Empire as a leader in thought or action, and that his name will be associated with the name of McGill University as Lord Rector, is of infinitely more importance. The benefits accruing to the University through legitimate publicity resulting from a Lord Rectorship can not readily be estimated. The perpetuation of a firmly established Scottish tradition links us more closely with the land that claims our great benefactor as one of its noble sons.

GOVERNMENT WAS SUSTAINED ON PULP EMBARGO BILL IN
MOCK PARLIAMENT SESSION

country, and would give employment to thirty-three thousand people. (cheers)

"This was a precedent other governments never thought of accomplishing," said the honourable Spectator.

The material benefits would be chiefly, additional wealth, aggrandized industry, and it would enable the government to tax important industries.

The chief objection to this, said the speaker, would be the unfriendly attitude to the States. Those in the U.S.A. who would decline most loudly against it, are those who are at present sapping the strength of the country, namely, about seventeen per cent. The States have little ground for prejudice. They have their own forests, but are holding them in reserve. Canada must not continue to be a meek milch cow, content to be milked by our neighbours. (Applause.) They must take their losses as we have taken ours. (More applause.) "Supposing Canada were the United States and United States were Canada, there would be no doubt of the result," said the honourable Prime Minister, amidst a holocaust of cheers from members of his own party. To crown his eloquent words, he suggested that the Canadian Parliament stick to the old motto—"Canada First" (Wild applause which terminated with the rising to the floor of the Hon. Dephure, member for Lachine, the magnate aforesaid.)

Scarcely had he started his eloquent speech by referring to the Prime Minister as "ignorant," when a Reform member accused him of being one of those grasping Americans who were seeking to ruin Canadian trade. (cheers) The spirit of the Lachine member was not to be denied. "Supposing the embargo were placed on pulpwood could we find a market with our biggest consumer, the U. S. A.?" Forty-seven per cent of Canadian investments is American capital. They are our largest consumer. Canada would only have Great Britain left to export to, and then she would be in competition with Norway and Sweden who manufacture the best tissue in the world. And at present Americans are selling the finished newsprint, etc., in Canada, at from five to ten dollars a ton cheaper than Canada could manufacture it herself. The embargo would make the price shoot up. At present, the United States is underselling us. Why? Ask the government. Through U.S.A. would have to deal from Canada at first, yet she would not leave us and open trade with Norway, Sweden, Brazil and other places. Canada wants markets. "If the embargo were put on what would happen?" Would we have the market? (Fierce applause by the Leader of the Opposition, supported by one or two colleagues.)

The Right Honourable W. Goforth started to outline the policy of the Liberal party, but was stopped by the speaker. He then began to deal with rights of the Maritime provinces and here again he was forestalled. Then he "got to the point". He said that, as it would not be to the economic advantage of Canada to place an embargo upon goods, his party were not going to support the bill. He said that, at the present rate, Canada's supplies would not be exhausted until about 600 years hence. Like university students, Canada has to do her utmost to pay her debts, and needs sorely the money gained by free exporting. He was supported very well by a fellow-member who quoted many statistics in opposition to those of the Prime Minister.

The Hon. L. Edel was the next speaker and, in opening, said that he felt that the bill on hand should go through. He objected to certain statements made by the Hon. Member from Lachine pertaining to the degree to which American mills would be affected by the proposed embargo; he stated that the only mill to be put out would be those producing second-grade goods. These methods would tend to reduce the price of newsprint, and the United States would be forced to buy paper from Canada. "We must think of the future generations," he continued, "this measure is more than a temporary relief, it looks ahead." Hunting was then touched upon by the speaker, and he said that the forest was the natural canopy of the animals and that deforestation meant the taking away of the natural protection of wild game. As far as Canada is concerned, the United States is the sole market for pulp at present. "On this question, above all," the speaker stated in conclusion, "we should stand united."

The "Cross-benchers" were then heard from, the Hon. Mr. Patton speaking; he said that pulp and paper companies in Canada owned their own forests and that the farmers supplied a small proportion of the pulp-wood. The result of an embargo would be a drop in the price of pulp-wood; the chief sufferer in Canada would be the farmer, who represents the premier industry of this country; the premier pulp-wood export amounts to 1-200 of all the deforestation and would therefore not be largely affected by an embargo. In concluding, the speaker stated that although this embargo was a measure calculated to help industry it did so then there could be no conservation, and vice versa.

Mr. R. Specter, of the Government, addressed his opening remarks to the President of the Cut-Down Lumber Co., and then elaborated on the ideas and ideals of our Southern neighbours who, he said, were imbued with the idea of "getting while the getting was good." The proportion of our annual cut to be amount lost through destructive agencies was quoted as being less than 10%.

Mr. Maughan, of the Liberal party, touched on a survey of the paper trade for the last ten years, and stated that the money necessary to enforce the embargo would have to come from outside the country, thus defeating the Government's policy of "Canada first."

The next speaker was Mr. A. Edel, from the Government side; he cited the case of an idealist who came from England to Canada with the idea of obtaining employment, and was forced to go to the United States to get it; he later wrote a letter to one of the local papers, the crux of which was "What is wrong with Canada?" This question is to-day being asked by the farmers, the middle-class people and the lumbermen, as they are all affected by existing conditions. "I suppose that in the opinion of the member from Lachine, in the event of a Canadian embargo the only markets for the United States would be Norway and Sweden; in any case these would only be temporary ones." He concluded by saying that the forests were our natural heritage and as we also have the water-power, it is the natural thing to manufacture the paper here.

The Hon. Kelloway, of the Opposition stated that of all the forested land, 55% is owned by the Crown and is therefore exempt from any embargo—this also applies to the 5% owned by companies. Of the remaining 10%, only a part would be touched by the embargo. About 800,000,000 cubic feet are annually destroyed by fire and even more by insects, which is in a proportion of 8 to 1 of the amount affected by an embargo, therefore the embargo would not be conservation to a very great extent. "In this bill," he continued, "have the Government considered the fact that they cannot serve industry and conservation at the same time? What proof have they that the American mills will come here and be unable to obtain raw supplies elsewhere? They must take cognizance of the fact that there are great sources of supply in Alaska. If we enforce the embargo and the United States finds other markets then we will lose the American paper market and we may also suffer through retaliation." Quotations were then read from Article 1301 of the report of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Commission pertaining to exports and imports of paper.

At this juncture, an alderman entered the room in a leisurely fashion, and after giving the assembly the "once-over" decided to side with the "cross-benchers", much to the chagrin of some of the Government members.

The next member to take the floor was, to quote the Speaker, "rather ambivalent"; he not only stood in the middle of the floor but paced up and down during his speech. "The greatest crime a nation can commit," said the Hon. Gerald Almond, "is that of not taking care of a trust or heritage which is to be passed on to future generations." Before finishing his walking exercise the member stated that he wished to impress the house with the desirability of loyalty and also of the fact that this was the psychological time to act and show such loyalty—if any existed.

rush on the part of the Theologs which netted them three more goals but which was not sufficient to overcome the lead of Meds. III. Meds scored twice in this period. The final score being 3 to 4.

For the winners McAvoy and Moffatt played best. McAvoy getting four goals, while Moffatt slipped three by Loyd. Avison showed best for the Theologs.

The scheduled game between Arts II and Law II and III was defaulted to Arts due to the non appearance of the Law team. This is the second default for Law and makes them secure in the cellar position.

The line-up of the Meds. vs Theologs game was as follows:—

MEDS III	THEOLOGS

McKenna	Defence
McKercher	Moore
McDermitt	Scharff
Moffatt	Centre
Chiselm	Forwards
McAvoy	Bowering
Davies	Ginn

The Hon. Mr. McKies expressed his regret at having arrived late and thus losing some of the convincing arguments set out in the earlier part of the evening. He was convinced that there should be a friendly feeling between Canada and her neighbour to the South.

The Hon. Mr. Morrisseau, Minister of Fisheries and Forestry, was next on the floor; although he started his speech in English he finished the greater portion of it in French at the request of one of his colleagues. He spoke as follows: "The chief point in the case is not to see whether we could succeed in receiving compensation from foreign nations for the loss of American business. The idea of retaliation from the United States is the very important one. Senator Borah, of the U. S. Congress, said that if Canada put an embargo on pulp-wood, then they would do likewise on anthracite coal. Let us face the result, and we will take coal from British Columbia and from Wales." The Hon. Member concluded amidst great applause.

The Speaker then called for a division on the amendment to the bill. The result was: 22 in favour of the amendment and 42 against, the Government being thus sustained.

It was announced later on in the evening, that the Hon. Mr. Glasco, Leader of the Opposition, had resigned through pressure of personal business. The Liberal party under the leadership of The Hon. John Humphrey, is therefore the new Official Opposition. The new Leader represents St. John, N. B. and other members include the Hon. Lovell McKies, Port Churchill, the Hon. Mr. Don Patton, Edmund Secum, N. S. the Hon. Mr. Maughan, Notre Dame de Grace the Hon. Mr. William Murcheson, Puenos Aires, Yukon and the Hon. Mr. Wallace Goforth, Peking, Sash.

The policy of the new party may be summed up in the words of one of the members: "We are dissatisfied with the lethargic inactivity of the present Government in connection with the widespread dissatisfaction in the Maritime Provinces and in the West. We stand for unity and integration if the Dominion, the promotion of even classmate time seeking to secure from the United States concessions in tariff and other prejudicial conditions which may cause a more equitable distribution of the economic and commercial advantages of our Dominion strategic position. While seeking in every way to safeguard the interests of our industries, the policy of the new Liberal party tends towards the marked reduction of many items of our present tariff and the securing of similar preferential concessions from our neighbouring Republic."

A.O.A. TO HOLD OPEN MEETING TO-NIGHT

Dr. Chipman to Speak on
"Prophylaxis in Cancer"

A problem which has been very prominent and in which many theories have been advanced will be discussed by Dr. Chipman in his address on "The Prophylaxis in Cancer" at the Medical Building at 8:30 to-night. Dr. Chipman will speak at an open meeting of the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Society and all students are invited to attend.

The speaker, in his professional capacity and through his connections with the University has made himself extremely popular and it is expected that many members of the staff and students body will avail themselves of this opportunity. Many Undergraduates have been eagerly awaiting this address, counting on an excellent discussion, as many of Dr. Chipman's metaphors and similes have become proverbial among Medical students. Dr. Chipman will attack the problem not from the etiological viewpoint, but rather from that of prophylaxis or prevention. His clinical experience and well known ability as a speaker should combine to make his address of great value. The A.O.A. meeting is being thrown open to all undergraduates so that they may share with members the opportunity to hear Dr. Chipman on this subject.

IBERVILLE LOSES TO CHESS TEAM

Prof. Slack and H. Lidsky
Win Postponed Games

By winning the two adjourned games over members of the Ibergville Chess Club, the McGill men are victors in this match with the long end of a 4-2 score.

These two games, were adjourned at midnight Jan. 28 by Prof. Slack who played again D. Saunders of Ibergville, and H. Lidsky, Arts'25, who was matched against A. Tanguay, and were played off on Tuesday evening last. Since the total score stood at 2-2, everything depended on these games.

At the first table Prof. Slack was in a difficult situation, his opponent having gained two pawns. However before a vigorous and well-planned attack the Ibergville man gave way and Prof Slack was victor, at 11 p.m. McGill was certain of at least a tie.

WILL ADDRESS
COMMERCIALS

Speaker is Gen.-mgr. of Royal Trust Co.

REGULAR MEETING

Subject: "Some Practical
Phases of Banking as we Meet Them"

The members of the Commercial Society will have the opportunity of hearing a very fine address on banking when Mr. Hugh Blair MacKenzie addresses the Society to-night. The speaker is general manager of the Royal Trust Company and is also past president of the Montreal Board of Trade. Mr. MacKenzie was born at Brantford Ont. and was educated at Kincardine Collegiate and Trinity College at Port Hope. He began his banking career with the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which he left later to join the staff of the Bank of British North America, and later the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. MacKenzie was assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal when it amalgamated with the Merchants' Bank and it was he who practically engineered the amalgamation of the two banks. He became general manager of the Montreal Trust Company in 1920 and President of the Montreal Board of Trade in 1924.

The subject of his address will be "Some practical phases of banking as we meet them" and it is a subject on which Mr. MacKenzie is especially qualified to speak.

Plans for the Commercial Society Banquet are well under way and the date has been chosen for Thursday, February 19th. The committee is working hard to make this banquet an unqualified success and if the interest in the Banquet is manifested to the degree that is taken in the Society's other activities it is probable that it will be the most successful function of its kind ever held by the Society.

this will keep your hair in place . . .

How does your hair look an hour after you've brushed it? All out of place—mussed—every which way? Only a hint of its trimness left? That used to be the daily experience of most men. For then there was no quick, effective way to keep the hair always in place, looking at all times just as you want it to look. Old-fashioned pomades matted the hair and made it greasy. Water evaporated quickly and left the hair drier and harder to control than ever.

Economy Not Unknown To College Man

Many a young man starts out for college to-day with only a few dollars in his pocket. If he expects to compete his course he must, except in special cases, be able to do two things: earn a good wage in his spare time, and spend to advantage what he earns. The first, owing to the provision of college authorities and other conditions is not as difficult as it may seem, though the second, concerning the student perhaps more directly is often taken but little into account making it necessary to earn a good deal more. Let us consider some of its implications in modern college life.

Shall we say, to begin with, that at the root of economical personal spending lie two maxims which may take the form of questions put by the student to himself before making any purchase, namely: "How much poorer will I be if I do not make this purchase?" and, "Am I getting full honest value for my money?" Some would make the first: "Can I get along without buying this?" but there are many things we can do without that are not worth doing without if we can at all afford them. Another important aid is to keep a record of every cent received or given out.

There are many things we would not buy did we think how foolish a detailed record of them would look.

One of the first things a young man entering college has to consider is:—"How shall I dress?" Though custom and individual taste have much to do in answering this yet a little care may often mean a considerable saving. Students often get the best they can with the idea that it will save in the long run. This may sometimes be true but more often a moderately priced article wears almost as long and should an accident befall it the loss is not so great. It is poor economy to follow the extremes of fashion. One who does this is likely to find his clothes out of fashion before half worn out, but one content to be less stylish will remain longer in style.

The life of our clothes depends largely on the care we take of them. It should be part of the home education of every boy to learn how to darn, shock, and do simple mending. A stitch in time saves not only nine, but a garment for another season's wear. Proper hanging and putting away when not in use spells longer life and frequent brushing will lessen the necessity of having a suit often cleaned. When it becomes too shabby for street wear a suit will serve for wear in the gymnasium and other places.

In connection with clothes we have still to consider the question of how to get them washed. Student's laundry bills not infrequently run to quite high figures and of course no one wishes to be dubbed "Dirty Shirt". Many could find time to do their own washing, provided they had the equipment. In fact an instance is known of a Normal School boy who did practically all his own washing, borrowing an iron from his boarding mistress when he needed it; and doubtless many others could be cited. In a college residence it would be difficult to solve the problem of ironing in that way, though if electric irons were permitted one could be purchased and used co-operatively by a group of students. Even without means of pressing such articles as towels, socks, underwear, and so forth can be laundered without difficulty. For those who can wear them, cleanable collars and sweaters make deep cuts in laundry bills.

Room decorations comprise a ready means of emptying a student's pocket. Students spend a good deal of their time in their rooms and no one cares to live in a room with bare walls and windows. A little thought will show that much can be done to beautify a room at small cost. Chintz curtains, snapshots, pictures from magazines, calendars, and sporting articles are some inexpensive and ready means of decoration. In the use of these, good taste should be shown as the way a man arranges his room is often a fair index of his character.

Especially during the past few years the purchase of text-books has meant much to the student. Text-books are indispensable for without them effective work cannot be done. In many cases they are needed for a year or term only and can then be sold. Such books can, if the student is on the watch, generally be purchased second-hand. It is debatable whether it is best to buy all second-hand as there are many that are as useful after graduation as before, and the previous owner's markings may be very undesirable. Whether he intends to keep his books or not, the economical student will give them a reasonable amount of care and protection from the abuse they so often get, both inside and outside the covers. In some places the bills for stationery, pencils, and books might be reduced by a system of co-operative buying.

A stranger to college life might well wonder at the laxity on the part of many to get value for what they pay in tuition fees. A student will pay for the privilege of taking a course and get out of it, apparently, as little as the professor will let him pass on. In spite of the fact that professors eagerly demand them to get all they can from their courses. This can only be done if students realize that co-operation and hard work on their part are essential, and when they clearly understand the purpose of the course they are taking.

If there is a time when a student needs to hold tightly to his purse-strings, it is when it comes to amusements. It is so easy to put a blank note in our pocket and have a good time with it; to deceive ourselves in thinking that we are getting some good from an amusement that is really but a waste of time and to think it necessary to be unduly generous in order to be thought a "good sport." On the other hand it is still true that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and some well-chosen amusement is an essential part of a well-balanced life. His own personal tastes will suggest what that should be, but it should be something that will be quite a change from his work, and yet, at the same time of a profitable and clean nature.

There is one more source from which demands on a student's purse come, namely, gifts and voluntary subscriptions. What he shall do with these, he must settle for himself, and even the maxims given at the beginning of this essay will not apply here.

Economy is both an art and a science, and its rules are usually best learnt in the school of experience.

R.V.C. TIED M.A.A.A. IN FIRST GAME

Teams Well Matched and Third Period Ends 1-1 MANY SPECTATORS

Miss Scriver Scores for R.V.C. and Miss Gallery For M.A.A.A.

The R.V.C. hockey team tied with the M.A.A.A. team sixties 1-1 in the first day league game played Tuesday night. In spite of the floor conditions of the ice the game was fast and well played.

At the face-off the M.A.A.A. obtained the puck due to the not checking of the R.V.C. were unable to keep it long near their goal. The puck travelled up and down the rink and several times goals came near being made. Often the playing became quite rough and much fighting ensued particularly along the outside walls. The first period ended with no score for either team.

The second period began with faster play and better passing on the part of each side. All the players were doing well and it is hardly fair to pick out any particular one for special mention.

However due to clever team work and able checking the M.A.A.A. scored a point when Miss Gallery shot the puck in the R.V.C. goal. There was no further score.

In the third and final period the players had scarcely got warmed up to the game when Miss I. Scriver scored for the R.V.C. Both teams played strenuously, each striving for the lead. At times the puck was aimed straight for the goals but failed to enter being hit aside by the ever watchful and active goalkeepers. The brilliant shooting and checking on the part of each team made further scoring impossible and the match ended with a tie.

The lineup was as follows:—

HUDSON BAY ROAD BEFORE ECONOMISTS

Gardner and Macnaughton to Discuss Problem To-night EAST vs. WEST

Is Project Feasible or Practical? Speakers Will Try to Solve Question

East and West came into sharp contact this evening at 8.15 when, at the first meeting of the Economics club for 1925 the Hudson Bay Railway, a problem which has been in the eyes of the Canadian public for about 40 years will be discussed. Gardner, 25 and Macnaughton, 26 will try and solve the problem, the former taking the western point of view and the latter the eastern.

The railway, and the practicality of navigating the Bay to provide a new outlet for western wheat has been the bone of contention for years. In 1910 Sir Wilfrid Laurier then in power, started the project. In 1911 the Borden administration came in and continued it. Towards the end of the war the building of the road was abandoned. Now the matter has been reviewed and the west has begun to demand the completion of the railway.

Public sentiment on the matter varies. Experts themselves are divided on the subject. The statements of one captain who has navigated the Hudson straits are frequently found to be quite the contrary to the statements of another. Complex as the problem is, the speakers to-night have studied the project from its very inception, boiled down the views of the best and most reputable authorities, and the students of economics and all others interested are invited to be present and not only absorb the facts of the case but also participate in the discussion. Drs. Leacock, Hemmelen and Day will be present.

Wardner, the staunch supporter of the west, and hailing from Alberta, is well known among the economic students, having presented an outline of the conditions in western Canada at one of last year's meetings of the club. A. A. Macnaughton, 26, one of the leading men in the Junior year will try and show that the project is in no way feasible or practical.

That the discussion will be interesting is an assured fact for many of the Western students of McGill feel keenly about this road while the East

ODE OR SOMETHING

The snow is snowing all around. It falls on ships and trees. It falls in our galoshes here. And makes us sneeze.

erners are more or less opposed to the project.

The problem at the present is regarded by the west as one of the great things necessary to assure that part of the country better times. 'On to the Bay' leagues have been organized and the pros and cons of the matter have been aired quite freely of late in the press.

As usual, refreshments will be served following the meeting, which will be held in the smoking room of the Arts building, and discussion will follow.

THE IMPERIAL

The feature presentation at the Imperial Theatre this week, is a play entitled, "Vanity's Price," introducing Anna Q. Nilsson in the title role.

The story is that of a beautiful actress, who, as she advances in years, is unwilling to allow the ravages of old age to take the place of her youthful beauty. Although advised not to go, she determines to take a trip to Vienna, where she has heard that her beauty could be restored by a scientific operation.

The trip is undertaken; the operation is a success; and she returns to her only son with her former beauty once more restored. However, she finds that with youthful beauty, youthful desires return, and she falls in love with a wealthy citizen of ill-repute.

She can no longer fill the place of a mother, and her son, her dearest possession in life, decides to leave her, as she is unwilling to give up the acquaintance of her millionaire friend.

Soon she realizes her folly, and dropping all her newly-acquired acquaintances, she persuades her son to return to her.

The picture ends in the usual reconciliation scene, in which the mother and son are each happily married and settled in comfortable surroundings.

Anna Q. Nilsson takes the leading part in the play, and is ably assisted by Stuart Holmes, whose acting deserves special recommendation.

The scenery, though of a very conventional type, is well arranged. The acting throughout is of a very high quality, and humorous incidents from time to time relieve the more seriously romantic parts of the play.

The vaudeville acts are perhaps the most entertaining feature of the programme. All six are exceedingly amusing, and it would be impossible to pick out any one as superior to the others.

Hoffman and Lambert displayed some excellent juggling tricks, and what the latter is able to do with an ordinary hat, is truly amazing. Leon and Dawn dressed as school girls, presented a most delightful act; while Martell and Patterson were seen in a very attractive and amusing sketch.

The other acts were by Clarence E. Willard, and Freda and Anthony; as well as Ralph Dunbar's famous Bell Ringers.

A News Review, Topics of the Day, and an exceptionally amusing Aesop's Fable, round out a very delightful and pleasing programme.

The facts are sufficient

WE might say, "Old Squire is a tobacco you will all like. You never tasted a tobacco so good." But as a man's tobacco taste is a personal and private matter, we say instead, "Old Squire is a burley tobacco, with an individual taste and fragrance."

It is certainly a mild and sweet tobacco—so smooth that it never will burn your tongue.

Many men like it immensely, smoke it constantly and swear it's the best tobacco made.

The matter is soon settled. Buy a package.
